If you believe that your Personal Data has been provided to us improperly, or to otherwise exercise rights you may have relating to your Personal Data, please contact us by using the information set out in the “How to Contact Us” section below.

We obtain Personal Data from the following categories of sources:

- Directly from consumers who use our services.
- Directly from our customers or their agents or service providers. For example, from documents and electronic files that our customers provide to us related to the services for which they engage us.
- Indirectly from our customers or their agents or service providers. For example, through information we collect from our customers in the course of providing services to them.

- Directly and indirectly from activity on our Sites (www.paymentus.com and www.finovera.com) or sites we maintain for our customers. For example, from website usage details that are collected automatically. In addition, like many companies, we use “cookies”, which are small text files a website can use to recognise repeat users, facilitate the user’s ongoing access to and use of the site and to track usage behaviour of, for example, the web pages you visit.
- From third parties, such as payment processors and facilitators that interact with us in connection with the services we perform, and from data providers to help us identify contacts within commercial prospects and billers.
- From social media platforms and networks that you use in connection with our Sites, such as LinkedIn.

Cookies & Similar Technologies

We and our partners use various technologies to collect and store information when you visit one of our Sites or use our mobile apps, and this may include using cookies or similar technologies to identify your browser or device. We also use these technologies to collect and store personal identifiers (such as your IP address), Internet or other electronic network activity information (such as your browser characteristics, device IDs and characteristics, operating system version and language preferences) and information concerning your usage of our Sites (including the link you used to reach a given web page) when you interact with our Site or services from our partners, such as advertising services from our third-party advertising and analytics partner Google Analytics and similar partners. Please see our Cookie Notice for more details.

The technologies we use for this automatic data collection may include:

- Cookies. A cookie is a small file placed on the hard drive of your computer. You may refuse to accept browser cookies by activating the appropriate setting on your browser. However, if you select this setting, you may be unable to access certain parts of our services. Unless you have adjusted your browser setting so that it will refuse cookies, our system will issue cookies when you direct your browser to our services. For more information about our use of cookies, including details on how to opt out of certain cookies, please see our Cookie Notice.
- Web Beacons. Pages of our services or our emails may contain small electronic files known as web beacons (also referred to as clear GIFs, pixel tags and single-pixel GIFs) that permit us, for example, to count users who have visited those pages or opened an email and for other related website statistics (for example, recording the popularity of certain website content and verifying system and server integrity).
- Clickstream Data. Clickstream data is information collected by our computers when you request webpages from the Sites. Clickstream data may include information such as the page served, the time spent viewing the page, source of the request, type of browser making the request, the preceding page viewed and similar information. Clickstream data permits us to analyse how visitors arrive at the Sites, what type of content is popular and what type of visitors in the gate are interested in particular kinds of content on the Sites.

We use information collected from cookies and other technologies to improve your user experience and the overall quality of our services. We may use your Personal Data to see which webpages you visit at our Site, how you navigate through and interact with our Site and mobile apps, which website you visited before coming to our Site, and where you go after you leave our Site. We can then develop statistics that help us understand how our visitors use our Site and mobile apps and how to improve them. We may also use the information we obtain about you in other ways, for which we will provide specific notice at the time of collection.

However, some third-party sites do keep track of your browsing activities when they serve you content, which enables them to tailor what they present to you. If you are visiting such sites, your browser may include controls to block and delete cookies, web beacons and similar technologies, to allow you to opt out of data collection through those technologies.

How We Use the Information We Collect

We use your Personal Data in ways that are compatible with the purposes for which it was collected or authorised by you and in certain cases only as permitted by your biller, including for the following purposes:

- To provide you with Services;
- To present, operate, maintain, secure, authorise access to, or personalise our Sites and Services, and to respond to and support users;
- To verify information provided, as an additional step to ensure the accuracy of information provided to Paymentus;
- To improve, enhance and further develop our Sites and Services;
- To communicate with you regarding your bills from or payment obligations to your biller;
- To enable trusted business partners to provide you with information regarding your bill from or payment obligations to your biller and facilitate your payment of those bills or obligations;
- To perform data analysis and testing, including analysis of Site activity;
- To investigate possible fraud and/or attempts to harm us, our users or customers or other violations of and to enforce the Conditions of Use, our Payment Authorisation Terms or this Privacy Notice, and to resolve disputes;
- To comply with all applicable legal requirements and the rules of payment networks;
- To inform you about Services and products available from Paymentus or your biller;
- To offer and administer content, promotions, sweepstakes, surveys, voting polls or other Site features;
- To otherwise fulfil the purpose for which the information was provided.

For additional information on the data we receive and process, please review our Jurisdiction-Specific Notices section below.

Our Legal Basis for Collecting Personal Data

Whenever we collect Personal Data from you, we may do so on the following legal bases:

1. Your consent to such collection and use;
2. Out of necessity for the performance of an agreement between us and you, such as your agreement to use our Services or your request for Services;
3. Our legitimate business interest, including but not limited to the following circumstances where collecting or using Personal Data is necessary for:
 - Performing services requested by your biller, our customer;
 - Intra-organisation transfers for administrative purposes;
 - Product development and enhancement, where the processing enables Paymentus to enhance, modify, personalise, or otherwise improve our services and communications for the benefit of our users and customers, and to better understand how people interact with our Sites;
 - Communications and marketing, including processing data for direct marketing purposes, and to determine the effectiveness of our promotional campaigns and advertising;
 - Fraud detection and prevention;
 - Enhancement of our cybersecurity, including improving the security of our network and information systems; and
 - General business operations and diligence;

Provided that, in each circumstance, we will weigh the necessity of our processing for the purpose against your privacy and confidentiality interests, including taking into account your reasonable expectations, the impact of processing, and any safeguards that are or could be put in place. In all circumstances, we will limit such processing for our legitimate business interest to what is necessary for its purposes.

When You Choose Not to Provide Personal Data

Your provision of Personal Data is required in order to use certain parts of our Services and our programs. If you fail to provide such Personal Data, you may not be able to access and use our Services and/or our programs, or parts of our Services and/or our programs. Paymentus may use required fields to guarantee that the required amount of necessary data is provided to ensure the quality of the consumer data collected. Auto-complete fields may also be used to minimise the risk of inaccurate data.

Our Retention of Your Personal Data

We determine the appropriate retention period for Personal Data on the basis of the amount, nature and sensitivity of your Personal Data processed, the potential risk of harm from unauthorised use or disclosure of your Personal Data and whether we can achieve the purposes of the processing through other means, as well as on the basis of applicable legal requirements (such as applicable statutes of limitation).

After expiry of the applicable retention periods, your Personal Data will be deleted. If there is any data that we are unable, for technical reasons, to delete entirely from our systems, we will put in place appropriate measures to prevent any further use of such data.

Sharing Personal Data

Paymentus may disclose any of the categories of Personal Data listed above for our business and commercial purposes as described below.

- Billers, service providers, affiliates and trusted business partners. We disclose Personal Data to your billers (our Paymentus Partners), our service providers, affiliates and trusted business partners for a business purpose, which includes verifying your identity, to enable our compliance with applicable law and payment network rules when you make a payment or register access to your accounts, to process your payment instructions, to offer you additional channels through which you may receive information about your bills or to make payments, or to test or improve our Services. When we disclose Personal Data for these reasons, we enter into a contract that describes the purpose and requires the recipient to both keep that Personal Data confidential and to not use it for any purpose except for the purposes set forth in the contract.
- Legal and similar disclosures. We may also disclose Personal Data to governmental authorities and in connection with judicial or administrative proceedings as required or permitted by applicable law to meet legal obligations or to defend or assert our rights or the rights of others.
- Merger, sale, or other asset transfers. If we establish a new related entity, are acquired by or merged with another organisation, or if substantially all of our assets are transferred to another organisation, Personal Data about our users is often a transferred business asset. In the event that Paymentus itself or substantially all of our assets are acquired, Personal Data about our users may be one of the transferred assets.

Your Rights and Choices

You may have certain rights relating to your Personal Data, to the extent provided for by local law. We will provide you with access to your Personal Data as required by applicable law. If that information is wrong, we strive to give you ways to update it quickly or to delete it – unless we have to keep that information for legitimate business or legal purposes. To the extent required by applicable law, you may obtain a copy of Personal Data we maintain about you. To help protect your privacy and maintain security, we will take steps to verify your identity before granting you access to the information. For additional information, please review our Jurisdiction-Specific Notices section below

We have put in place commercially reasonable technical and organisational procedures to safeguard the information and Personal Data we collect on the Sites. If we transfer your Personal Data out of your jurisdiction, we will implement suitable safeguards and rely on legally-provided mechanisms to lawfully transfer data across borders to ensure that your Personal Data is protected.

How We Protect Personal Data

Paymentus maintains administrative, technical and physical safeguards designed to protect the user's Personal Data and other information against accidental, unlawful or unauthorised destruction, loss, alteration, access, disclosure or use. We will post any privacy notice changes on this page and, if the changes are material, we may provide a more prominent notice (including, for certain services or programs, email notification of privacy notice changes) for a reasonable period of time. Cookie Notice

Effective Date: 1 January 2023

We use cookies and similar tools across our Sites to improve their performance and security and to enhance your user experience. This Cookie Notice explains how we do that.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that a website may put on your computer or mobile device when you first visit a site or page. The cookie will help the website to recognise your device the next time you visit. Cookies may be used to remember your preferences and to help you navigate within a website. Web beacons or similar technology have similar functions. We use the term “cookies” in this Cookie Notice to refer to cookies, as well as web beacons, pixels or similar technologies.

There are many functions cookies serve. For example, they can help us to remember your username and preferences, analyse how well our Sites are performing and allow us to recommend content we believe will be most relevant to you.

Certain cookies contain personal information – for example, if you click on “remember me” when logging in, a cookie will store your username.

What sort of cookies does Paymentus use?

1. ESSENTIAL COOKIES

Some cookies are essential for the operation of our Sites. For example, some cookies allow us to identify registered users and ensure they can access the subscription-only pages, or they may facilitate page navigation or assist with security checks.

2. PERFORMANCE COOKIES

We utilise other cookies to analyse how our visitors use our Sites and to monitor website performance. This allows us to provide a high-quality experience by customising our offering and quickly identifying and fixing any issues that arise. For example, we may use performance cookies to keep track of which pages are most popular, which method of linking between pages is most effective, and to determine why some pages are receiving error messages.

3. FUNCTIONALITY COOKIES

We use functionality cookies to allow us to remember your preferences. For example, cookies save you the trouble of typing in your username every time you access the site, and recall your preferences, such as which sections of the Sites you want to see when you log in.

4. BEHAVIOURALLY TARGETED ADVERTISING COOKIES

These cookies are used to highlight articles, other content, or services that we think will be of interest to you based on your use of the Sites. They may also be utilised by third parties, such as when a third-party consent feed has been included on the Site so that you can view videos.

Does anyone else use cookies on our Site?

We do use or allow certain third parties to serve cookies on our Sites. We may allow third parties to serve cookies to help identify fraudulent or automated traffic on our Sites. We may also use third-party cookies to help us with market research, improving website functionality, and enforcing website terms and policies. For example, like many companies, we use Google Analytics to help us evaluate our website traffic.
